

June Days

"What is so rare as a day in June?
Then if ever come perfect days.
Heaven tries the earth if it be in tune
And over it softly her warm ear lays"

June days are here and we are convinced that Lowell knew what he was talking about when he wrote "The Vision of Sir Launfall." The poem is the story of a young man who started on a pilgrimage in search of the Holy Gail. After weary years of vain search, the pilgrim, an old broken down man returns to the place from which he started and finds there the object of his search. It had been there all these years.

Every day we see men leave the community in search of success and fortune. While we hope them well we are convinced of this: The man who is industrious, saves his money and makes the most of the opportunities that present themselves right here at home will sooner or later find that success and fortune for which others are wearily searching in strange lands.

The first mile stone on the road to success is starting an account with

Last Saturday at the Normal Institute, a spelling contest was held, in which some thirty of those in attendance took part. Just one of the number spelled all of the 234 words correctly, Miss Lillie Fleimister, of Lesbia, who was presented a landscape in water color, as first prize, while the second prize, a water color calendar, was won by Miss Oneta Barnes, of Logan, who missed but one word.

Two of the bandits who raided Columbus paid the death penalty in Doming Friday and it is really hoped that the other five who were convicted, will be given the same penalty. The squad will probably put up a bigger howl than ever now, but this should not interfere with justice in the least. The men were given a fair trial and were duly sentenced and nothing must interfere. The basis of their fight for clemency is the ignorance of the convicted men. Is there any excuse in law for ignorance? No, and if the guilty ones were Americans instead of Mexicans they would never have been given a trial, but would have been swung to the first available tree. —Columbus Courier.

The sterling worth of our superintendent, W. D. Shadwick, is gaining him state-wide recognition, as was shown recently when he was tendered the superintendency of the Raton public schools at a salary of $2000 per year with a two-years' contract. Mr. Shadwick will remain in Tucumcari, however, much to the gratification of his many friends here.

Flag Day was fittingly observed by the merchants and residents of Tucumcari, but three old veterans capped the climax. Messrs. Newman, Simmons and Richardson, secured a flag each and paraded on main streets of Tucumcari, cheering Old Glory and showing that the old men were patriotic because they love the flag and everything it stands for.

Ladies', Misses and Children's dress shoes will arrive this week at Garrett's.

Most of the candidates are keeping the roads hot in every direction. Saturday is the big day and most of the county will take a day off. This campaign has been a warm one but most of the contests are friendly. If any crooked work is pulled off in behalf of any candidate if he favors and assists in the crookedness, every decent democrat should rise up and vote for his opponent in the general election, providing his opponent is any better. A crook or incompetent official should not be tolerated.

R. C. Moore, wife and three children passed through Tucumcari yesterday on their way to Arizona, where they expect to make their future residence. This family has lived in Quay county for a number of years, owning property in Tucumcari and a farm in the vicinity of Hudson. Mr. Moore has been in poor health for several months and thought best to change climate. His many friends hope for a speedy recovery and are anxious for the family in its entirety to return to this county where they have been successful farmers.

Allen & Dealy's hardware store has been about the busiest place in Tucumcari during the past 24 hours. It was reported to the News that ten wheat headers were sold by them and loaded on wagons and taken to the wheat belt on the plains. This firm has sold a number of headers and it certainly looked like there was something doing when the farm wagons loaded with machinery started for the plains early this morning. The men said the wheat was coming out much better than was expected and a good yield is anticipated.

H. L. Miller, the genial democrat and farmer of the Barancoes neighborhood, was here today meeting his many friends and talking politics. He does not like the rules of the primary which lets all parties votes to select nominees for the democrats. He is of the opinion that the opposition parties will try to nominate the poorest or weakest men in order that they can put up good men this fall and defeat the democrats. He believes a strict party line should be drawn that would allow the democrats to select their candidates; the republicans to select their own and the socialists do likewise.

A letter from one of the soldier boys from Tucumcari who is located at Columbus, New Mexico, says they are getting along fine. Every company from this state has received tobacco, fruit and candies except this company from Artesia and Tucumcari. The wages of the boys are not sufficient to allow them to spend very much for goodies but they would appreciate it if their friends here would send them something. Jack Lawrence who came back from Columbus on account of being too old to pass, sent the boys a box of lemons and one of oranges which was very much appreciated. There are now about twenty from this city in the service near Columbus in Company C.

WHITE WITHDRAWS FROM SHERIFF RACE

The voters of Tucumcari were somewhat surprised last week when it was made known that Fred White, one of the leading candidates for sheriff, so far as Tucumcari was concerned, had withdrawn from the race. When asked why he should do such a thing his reply was about as follows:

"I have been so busy attending to the duties of my office that I have not had time to properly canvass the county and my financial condition is not such that I could hire any work done, so I thought in justice to myself and family it was best for me to withdraw and I did. After withdrawing from the race I was accosted by many of my friends and would-be friends who said they were sorry to have me pull out because they were sure that I was the man who would have won the nomination. I appreciate the stand taken by my friends and to those who put up a false front and played friendly when I know how they stand, I desire to say that I feel sorry for them and hope they will become men someday and therefore make better citizens. Stand for the man you think is best and don't promise every man that comes along, your support."

"I wish to deny the false reports made in regard to my withdrawal."

"No man or set of men paid me one cent to get out of the race. Some falsifier has said that the Bell ranch, which is located in San Miguel county, paid me a large sum to get out. This is intended to injure me and I wish to say there is not a word of truth in the statement."

"No candidate for sheriff has offered me a deputyship or any other consideration to withdraw. My withdrawal has strengthened no special candidate and therefore no candidate could afford to pay me to get out of the way. I hope that my friends will vote for the man whom they think will make good as sheriff, one who will see that the law is enforced as nearly as possible, one who is not under any obligations to any man or set of men. I leave that question for you to settle. I have made a clean campaign and am proud to know that I have many friends in Quay county who would have worked hard to secure my nomination. I felt that I deserved it and was the right man for the place, but did not have the time nor money to make a thorough canvass and am out of the race, leaving the people to choose between my former opponents, and here's hoping that you choose the best man."
